

The negative role of the school in shaping the personality of the person

In every man's life there comes a day when he enters a new stage in his life and comes to school. Some expectations are justified, some are not. In any case, many things become new. But throughout school life students are exposed to assessment. Pay attention on academic performance, the learning ability, behavior and communication with peers. And it often happens that the opinion which prevailed in society, do not coincide with reality, which influences the formation of personality in the future.

The teacher as the primary cause of disorders of personality

School teachers are different. Among the kind and caring teachers, willing to give his soul to the child, there are those who are able to leave a negative mark on the development of personality. It so happens that according to the personal preferences of the teacher, he's biased against the student who does not meet his expectations or not up to his vision of the perfect child.

The problems begin when that bias comes out and adversely affects the atmosphere in the classroom and infringe on the feelings of the child. Biased attitude to the natural processes of growing up and ridiculing them in public, also has a weight in the formation of the personality, as one of the consequences may become an inferiority complex, and further disorders such as eating behavior, if harassed too full or thin student.

The cruelty of children is a frequent phenomenon of modern life

Public humiliation of teachers often joined by the children themselves, who think the opinion of the teacher authority. All this leads to massive harassment and the impact on all students. To stop this process sometimes can only transfer to another school.

The role of parents in school processes

An important role plays the involvement of parents in a child's life. It is only with the support of loved ones to solve problems at custom research paper writing service school or does not pay attention to the attacks.

The child, whose family have the unhealthy atmosphere and tension, automatically reduced:

- the ability to learn;
- stress resistance;
- active school activities.

Without the support and attention of adults the child is hard to cope with the attacks and counter them, and, in cases when parents scold their children and make fun of their problems, they have no choice but to cope on their own. But the unformed psyche of the child is simply not capable of it. This gives impetus to the creation of various installations and anchors that affect life, ability to work, family life and self-esteem and self-esteem. Often people, subjected to various harassment, come with their adult problems to psychologists who are looking for the origins of the problems of children. Competent study has a positive effect on the person, but only by joint efforts.
